Forgot He Did It.

It was quite a common story in the police court; a neighborly argument had become a brawl, and now the applicant wanted a summons for assault against her neighbor.

"Are you married?" asked the magistrate.

"Yes, sir," replied the applicant.

"Where is your husband?"

"Away, sir."

"Away!" exclaimed the magistrate.

"My good woman, what do you mean by 'away'?"

"Please, sir," said the woman hurriedly, "you put him away yourself last week."—London Answers.

CARBON!

Rid System of Clogged-up Waste and Poisons with "Cascarets."

Like carbon clogs and chokes a motor, so the excess bile in liver, and the constipated waste in the bowels, produce foggy brains, headache, sour, acid stomach, indigestion, sallow skin, sleepless nights, and bad colds.

Let gentle, harmless "Cascarets" rid the system of the toxins, acids, gases, and poisons which are keeping you upset.

Take Cascarets and enjoy the nicest, gentlest laxative-cathartic you ever experienced. Cascarets never gripe, sicken, or cause inconvenience. They work while you sleep. A box of Cascarets costs so little too.—Adv.

BOSCHEE'S SYRUP.

A cold is probably the most common of all disorders and when neglected is apt to be most dangerous. Statistics show that more than three times as many people died from influenza last year, as were killed in the greatest war the world has ever known. For the last fifty-three years Boschree's Syrup has been used for coughs, bronchitis, colds, throat irritation and especially lung troubles. It gives the patient a good night's rest, free from coughing, with easy expectoration in the morning. Made in America and used in the homes of thousands of families all over the civilized world. Sold everywhere.—Adv.

MOSAIC DISEASE OF SUGAR CANE

Federal Agricultural Department Taking Measures to Stamp It Out.

PLENTY OF HEALTHY STOCK

If Unchecked Disease May Do Incalculable Damage to Great Cane Growing Sections of the South—Must Use Pure Seed.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Washington.—The United States department of agriculture is issuing a bulletin containing several colored plates illustrating the mosaic disease of sugar cane, which should enable those interested in this disease of cane to identify it. The mosaic disease of sugar cane which has been known for several years in a number of other cane countries has recently been found in the southern United States. While this disease is quite widespread in the states, there are many disease-free areas from which clean seed cane may be obtained.

Late Canker Stage of Mosaic Disease on Canes of New Caledonia Variety. Cane in Center is Healthy.

The mosaic disease, which has done considerable damage to the cane crop in Porto Rico and some other cane countries, is one of the most serious maladies that has confronted cane growers in recent years, and if unchecked may do incalculable damage to the great cane-growing sections of the South.

To Eradicate Disease.

The measures of control now being taken by the federal authorities in co-operation with various local agencies were preceded by a complete survey of the Southern states undertaken to ascertain the extent of the infected areas.

In badly diseased fields the only remedy is to grind up all the stalks, say the representatives of the department of agriculture. This means, of course, that carefully selected seed cane must be brought in from other regions for replanting. There is still an abundance of healthy stock in Louisiana and the other cane states, so that the industry should not seriously suffer from these attempts at eradication. Where the disease has not obtained a strong foothold, roguing is recommended. This consists of pulling up infected plants, root, stem and branch, and throwing them down between the rows.

MOST ELOQUENT SPEECH OF WAR

Credited by Baruch to Donlin, President of the Building Trades.

LITTLE TALK CLEARS THE WAY

Was Made in the Dark Days of the War When the Cry From France Was "Men, More Men"—Never Got Into Print.

Washington.—The most eloquent speech made during the war, according to Bernard M. Baruch, former chairman of the war industries board, never got into print. It was made in the dark days when the cry from France was "Men, more men," and the supply available in the draft was running low.

"General Crowder," says Mr. Baruch, "served notice on the board that he must have something like 300,000 men, and the question was where they were to come from. The draft had taken out everybody available, and the only way was to take men from industry. Hence the appeal to the war industries board."

"We put men to work on it, and due time a plan for weeding men out was presented. Among other things it put the private chauffeur out of business, as well as salesmen and men in the white goods trade. This would not have been enough, and the placing of

As soon as the plants wilt they are no longer dangerous as a source of infection. In damp regions, however, care must be taken to gather up these plants and burn them or otherwise destroy them, lest while lying on the ground they sprout and so spread the disease.

Appearance of Mosaic Disease.

It is difficult to describe the appearance of sugar-cane mosaic verbally, and this is one of the reasons why the federal authorities are using a bulletin with colored illustrations. By means of this bulletin anyone can readily ascertain the exact appearance of infected plants. This disease is an infectious chlorosis, similar in many respects to the mosaic disease of tobacco, cucumber, bean, tomato and potato. Scientists have come to the conclusion that some virus is responsible for the appearance of all new cases, and that the only source of infection is some other infected plant. Experiments in Porto Rico and elsewhere have repeatedly demonstrated that cuttings from infected stalks will invariably give rise to infected plants. The shoots seem to be mottled as soon as they appear. Therefore, the use of diseased stalks for planting results in a wider distribution of the disease and insures the survival of the virus even in the absence of secondary infections.

women in men's work in the trades had to be considered—a real dilution of labor.

Labor Called In.

"The scheme was all right, but when it came to us for approval we found that everybody except those most important had been consulted. I mean the representatives of labor. So they were called in and the scheme, as well as the necessity back of it, were explained to them."

"As might be expected, there was a lot of opposition to putting women in the men's trades and the putting of the men thus released into uniform. During it all one man sat still, giving not the slightest indication of what he thought of the thing. After about everybody else had had his say he took the floor."

"Mr. Chairman," he said, "this thing is very simple. If I am going home Saturday night with my week's pay in my pocket and a guy steps up and tries to take it away from me, I am a fool if I keep my left hand on the wad and try to beat him off with my right. If I do that the chances are that he will get me and the wad and get away clean."

"If I take my left hand off the wad and go after him with both hands, I'll save the wad and get him."

Use Both Hands.

"Now, Mr. Chairman, that's the case here. This German guy is just around the corner. If we keep one hand on our wads he'll get us and our wads, too. If we use both our hands we'll save the wads and get him. Unless we get him, if he gets us, our wads or anything else won't be worth much. So I say, Mr. Chairman, let us take both our hands out of our pockets and get after him. So far as I'm concerned, you can have every man in the building trades that can pass the doctors, and the boys, I'm sure, will back me up."

"John H. Donlin, president of the building trades department, was the chap that did the talking. His little speech settled the question, and all the way was left clear to us to weed all the men out of industry that might be needed."

"Fortunately, as it happened, we did not need to 'dilute' labor, but Donlin's little speech took us over what was one of the nastiest situations in the war. It was the most eloquent speech made during the war and one of the most effective."

Girl Saves Father.

Paris, Ky.—When John Howard, a tenant on the farm of Frederick Wallis, attempted to pick up one of a litter of pigs in the barnyard he was savagely attacked by the mother of the pigs and received a number of serious injuries. His daughter came to his rescue and lassoed the enraged animal and with the assistance of a laborer on the farm carried her father to a place of safety.

BABIES ARE H. C. L. SACRIFICE

Temporarily Disposed Of in Minnesota That Parents May Economize.

St. Paul, Minn.—Official statistics presented to Governor Burnquist indicate that the high cost of living has caused a number of families in Minnesota to temporarily dispose of their children, so that husband and wife may both obtain employment and live in one or two rooms.

High rents, coupled with the high cost of food, has compelled a number of women in distress to turn their children over to charitable institutions, according to S. W. Dickinson, superintendent of the Children's Home society of Minnesota, St. Paul.

A local children's home has been caring for 44 babies, and some of these are being loaned to the State agriculture school for the economics department, where the young women students studying domestic science are taught to properly care for babies.

CRIME IS INCREASING

Armed Attacks Are Quite Common in France.

Bandits Use Auto to Get $28,000 Pay Roll From Disabled Soldiers.

Paris.—It was a foregone conclusion that the return of a state of peace would mean the end of a comparative freedom from burglaries and armed attacks on persons. Such crimes are now alarmingly on the increase.

The other day an armed attack was made in the holding up of a tramway on the outskirts of the city.

Then there was a robbery at Havre, recalling Bonnot-Garnier's methods. Two culprits are now in the hands of the police, and they have given the names of their two confederates. The affair was briefly as follows:

Two railway employees were walking down the line last Friday morning with $28,000 as pay for the engine-drivers and other categories. They were both disabled soldiers, one having lost a leg and the other an eye in the war. The robbers, who had evidently carefully prepared their coup, sprang upon the two pay messengers just as the latter reached a level crossing. To knock them down and seize the money bag was the work of an instant.

A gray motorcar was waiting by the level, and the robbers were far down the road before the victims could summon help. Information was brought that a gray torpedo-bodied car had stopped before a little public house in town, and that a man in uniform had left it carrying a case such as is used by railway pay officials.

Two new Portland cement factories are being built at Kawasaki and Hokkaido, Japan, at a cost of $2,000,000.

BOSTON'S OLD STATE HOUSE

Famous Building, Restored by Patriotic Society, Is Now Preserved as a Revolutionary Relic.

The old State house in Boston was erected in 1743. In early days the first floor was used as the Merchant's exchange, and the second story as the meeting place of the governors of the province and the royal council. A few feet from the eastern porch occurred the Boston massacre on March 5, 1776; in 1780 Washington reviewed from this building a procession in his honor, and in 1835 William Lloyd Garrison took refuge there to escape from the mob that had broken up an anti-slavery meeting and threatened his life. In later years the building was turned into business offices and was so much altered, inside and outside, as almost to destroy the original architectural effect. In 1881 it was restored by the city at the request of the public-spirited citizens, and is now in the custody of the Bostonian society, which occupies it. The rooms, including the old council chamber and hall of representatives, contain a collection of relics and paintings of revolutionary times.

He Should Know.

"Here's a charge for a call lasting half an hour on our telephone," said the lawyer to his wife.

"Yes, dear. That was my call. I was asking a friend of mine a question," replied the wife.

"And did it take half an hour to ask a question?"

"Yes, dear. You see, it was one of those hypothetical questions."

VISITOR SHOULD HAVE TACT

Something of a Triumph When One Can Make Hostess Feel at Home in Her Own House.

Visiting is an art. To make people feel at home in their own house is the highest point of human conduct. "He was never any trouble," said a certain woman of her husband, who, though he had never supported her, nevertheless made her happy for 30 years. What an epitaph for a permanent visitor!

To visit properly requires supreme gifts. Silent visitors often get on one's nerves more than the parrot. Their staring eyes, their maddening acquiescence in everything done for them, their almost inexcusable lack of enthusiasm, leave one dead and cold and weary. In contrast, we all know the jumping guest who is always ready to meet your slightest suggestion with projectile-like activity, and who bounces about the place from morning till night jostling your sacred and inviolable ideas and tramping roughshod over your mental gardens, with sublime unconcern.—Exchange.
